Two bailed after stolen beer kegs are seized

TWO teenagers have been bailed after police seized a thousand stolen beer kegs in raids in Edmonton and Tottenham last Friday.

Officers received a tip-off about the storage of steel beer kegs – thought to be worth more than £100,000 if sold for scrap – in shipping containers. Officers raided two sites at 12.45pm last Friday.

A 19-year-old man and an 18-year-old woman were arrested on suspicion of handling stolen goods. They have been bailed pending further inquiries.

Each keg is thought to be worth between approximately £75 and £165.

Detective Inspector Steven Dryden, of Haringey CID, said: "In the past ten years, the price of metal has soared 400 per cent, it's a valuable commodity that makes it an attractive prospect to thieves."

"Thieves and unscrupulous dealers will find industries are not prepared to suffer any further, and police in Haringey will not hesitate to take action against anyone who is found to be involved in this form of criminality in the borough."

Officers from Haringey have been working closely with public houses and Kegwatch to prevent keg thefts.

Kegwatch works on behalf of the brewery industry to try to stop the theft of kegs, casks and gas cylinders.

Security director David Belcher said: "Stainless steel beer kegs are used in pubs and clubs across the country."

"Stolen kegs are often disposed of illegally through illicit outlets and scrapyards. We work hard with police forces up and down the country to stop this from happening and as a result we have had many successful prosecutions."

"This was the result of a coordinated, planned operation between police in Haringey and Kegwatch."

"We really appreciate the work the police have done for the brewery industry today."

Unprovoked attack after darts match

DETECTIVES are appealing for information after a man was left with a fractured eye socket following an attack after the World Darts Championship at Alexandra Palace in December.

It happened between platforms three and four at the railway station at around 11.30pm on Friday, December 23.

The victim, a 20-year-old man, was at the station with a friend waiting for a train back to Welwyn Garden City when they were approached by a group of men.

They spoke with the group for around five minutes without any issues until suddenly, and unprovoked, two of the men set upon the victim's friend before turning on the victim, who was punched a number of times to the face, causing him to fall to the floor.

While on the floor, one of the men began kicking the victim the face. When he attempted to get up, the group ripped his shirt and punched him again, causing him to fall back down. The group then made off from the scene.

The victim was taken to the Queen Elizabeth II Hospital, where he was treated for a fractured eye socket, two black eyes and a swollen nose.

DC Stephen McBride, of BTP's Criminal Investigation Department, said: "This was a brutal attack on a man who was simply trying to make his way home from an evening at the darts."

"The brutality of the assault left the victim suffering with facial injuries over the Christmas and New Year period. I'm urgently appealing for anyone who may have witnessed the attack to contact police."

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to contact British Transport Police on 0800 40 50 40 quoting reference B5/LNA of 12/01/2012. To remain anonymous, call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

DC SENTENCED OVER GBH CASE

A POLICE officer based in Haringey has been handed a suspended sentence after pleading guilty to misconduct in public office.

Detective Constable David McGarry, 52, was given a six-month sentence suspended for 12 months, 120 hours of community service and ordered to pay

£1,500 in costs at Southwark Crown Court last Thursday. Three counts of perverting the course of justice were left to lie on file.

The offence relates to the circumstances surrounding McGarry's investigation into a GBH against a 29-year-old man in the South Tottenham area on July 1 2005.

Two people were charged in connection with the assault in May 2007, but in June the following year the case was stayed by the trial judge, citing serious deficiencies in the investigation, as well as breaches of the Criminal Procedure and Investigation Act Code of Practice.

McGarry was then subject to an investigation by the MPS Directorate of Professional Standards (DPS) and an official complaint was received from the victim of the assault on July 1 2008.

The decision to prosecute was made by the CPS on August 10 2010 and McGarry was suspended the following day.

Commander Peter Spindler, of the Directorate of Professional Standards, said: "The MPS expects the highest levels of professionalism from officers and staff. When an individual falls below this expectation we will hold their actions to account, robustly investigate their wrong doing and where appropriate prosecute."

"We welcome the decision by the court and it sends a clear message to the officer of the high expectations the public have of those of us fortunate enough to be in public office."

"The officer abused his position of trust and authority and by doing so breached the high professional standards we all expect. It is right that he has been held to account for his failings."

"Now the judicial process has concluded we will be convening a misconduct hearing."

MP claims fees are 'burden on traders'

By Ruth McKee

IN a bid to stop Sunday parking charges local politicians have joined residents in slamming the council's decision to introduce tariffs in Enfield Town.

The introduction of the charges has sparked fears that shoppers will abandon the flagship shopping centre at the heart of the borough, choosing instead to shop in large, out-of-town centres and retail parks where parking is completely free.

The council's decision to impose Sunday charges comes just months after the summer riots left the town reeling when looters caused thousands of pounds of damage and concern is now mounting that the charges come just as retailers in the town are getting back on their feet.

One of the politicians at the forefront of the attack on the council is Enfield North MP Nick de Bois who is incensed by the new charges, which were introduced on January 8 and has slammed the council for "putting a massive burden on traders".

"The Sunday parking charges are coming at a time when our local economy is at its most vulnerable and at a time when Enfield Town is fighting to regain its status after last summer's riots," the Conservative MP told the Advertiser.

"This move by the council puts a massive burden on traders. It is not fair to our shoppers, our churchgoers, residents and the council should rethink this."

The council's move to introduce the charges in the face of fierce opposition has also infuriated Conservative councillor Terry Neville, who called the council completely irresponsible for forcing people to fork out for parking on Sundays.

Speaking out against the council's decision, he said: "None of these people are applying commercial sense to this scheme."

"I have had several meetings with Palace Gardens' traders about this, people who have got to make a living from retail on the high street - they have to keep their shops open," he said.

He added that the potential impact of the scheme could be "disastrous".

The charges were introduced in Enfield Town after Enfield Council offered free parking to shoppers in the run-up to Christmas.

Worried: Nick de Bois MP (above) and councillor Terry Neville

Parking pain

Mr Jewson was also highly dismissive of the argument that the charges will mean more people will take public transport. He added: "If people do a lot of shopping, they are not going to take the bus, particularly not if they have young children."

"The council should want to protect shops because otherwise, what will Enfield town become?"

But defending the council's decision, Chris Bond, cabinet member for environment, is adamant the scheme will not damage trade in the town.

According to the councillor, the charges are not high enough to act as a deterrent. He said: "Most shopping trips last less than two hours, the cost of parking in a Council car park for this period will be £1, we think that is a very reasonable price and is extremely unlikely to discourage anyone from travelling to Enfield Town centre to shop by car."

"The Sunday tariff changes are designed to reduce congestion and increase the turnover of both on and off-street parking, and encourage alternative forms of travel to the town."

"We consulted extensively and listened to the views of traders. In fact we changed our proposals after I spoke to shopkeepers, especially Waitrose, to delay the charge until after Christmas."

Outrage at Trent Park adventure

By Ruth McKee

RESIDENTS are appalled at the council's decision to give the go-ahead to a company to build a Tree Top Adventure over an acre of Trent Park.

The planned scheme, run by adventure specialists Go Ape, will include a rope swing, rope ladders and balance beam and is hailed as an ideal way of getting people to engage with the great outdoors.

But a resident, who visits the park to walk her dogs every day, is outraged at the company's plans, which she argues the council has pushed through without a proper consultation process.

"My main problem with this is that there was no proper public consultation on this," she fumed. "Five-hundred people go to the park every day. Not one person was asked about this. They just haven't gone about it in the right way at all. There were no plans displayed in the park at all."

She added: "The Sassoon family left the park to the people of Enfield for public use – not for private enterprise."

The issue has proved so divisive that even conservation groups are split on the issue and a new campaign group, True Friends Of Trent Park, has been formed to oppose The Friends Of Trent Park's support for the plan, saying the adventure park will have a serious impact on conservation projects.

But business development manager of Go Ape Ben Davies stressed that the plans would be a boon for the area.

"I estimate that this scheme will create 15 to 20 jobs for people locally," he said.

"We carried out a full environmental impact assessment. We are going to be looking after this area for the council. In fact on one of our other sites we have red squirrels playing around the swings.

"Our construction materials are designed not to do any damage to the trees."

The company admits it is excited about the project, the first of its kind for Go Ape, within easy reach of Londoners in search of a taste of adventure.

"The council wanted this sort of activity for the park and it benefits from this in terms of money," added Mr Davies. "We will pay rent."

He also dismissed the suggestion that the plans had gone ahead without full public consultation. "When we consulted on the issue, we didn't receive one objection," he added.

Chris Bond, Enfield Council's cabinet member responsible for the decision, said: "As part of this consultation process, Go Ape spent three days in Trent Park talking to members of the public about its proposals and the planning committee insisted on certain conditions designed to protect wildlife habitats and biodiversity in the area covered by the adventure park."

The Tree Top Adventure is scheduled to open to the public next month.

Meeting uproar as protesters clash with conservation group

By Ruth McKee

PARK users have split into warring factions over Enfield Council's decision to give the green light to the Go Ape Tree Top Adventure.

A public meeting of the conservation group The Friends Of Trent Park ended in uproar when a small group of people, angry at the council's decision, launched an attack on the representatives of the well-established group.

Treasurer Peter Gibbs described the chaotic meeting, saying: "A small group of about six or seven people, who had never attended one of our meetings before, began shouting and being very disrespectful. They tried to drown out everyone else and they insisted on speaking out of turn.

"They were acting in a very bellicose fashion. We had never seen these people before."

Mr Gibbs admitted that he became so frustrated with the disruptive elements at the meeting that he lashed out at their behaviour and called one of them a "lout".

"They were behaving in a very loutish way," he said. "It was a small undemocratic group of people objecting to these plans because of what we can only imagine is an unexpressed personal interest. They want to stop this development because of unfounded criticism.

"They said owls and bats will be disturbed by the tree felling – but that's simply not the case. They say that rare trees have been felled – but that's also just not the case."

Mr Gibbs described how the attacks from the small faction grew increasingly personal

FOB BOURNE

Alarmed and frustrated: Peter Gibbs, from The Friends Of Trent Park

and told the Advertiser that he was alarmed by the claims that the tree top adventure would attract "the wrong type of person" to the park. "I mean, how undemocratic is that?" he said.

The protesters have since formed themselves into a rival organisation calling themselves The True Friends Of Trent Park and are planning to carry on the fight with the launch of an online petition with signatures of those opposed to the adventure scheme.

Tennis club coach gets £4million for hit-and-run crash

A TENNIS coach who was left paralysed after he was knocked off his bicycle by a hit-and-run driver has won more than £4million to fund his future care.

The High Court ruled in favour of Patrice Gougam, 55, last Friday and against 65-year-old Michael Elliott and his insurer.

Mr Gougam, who used to work at Enfield Chase Tennis Club, was hit by a Land Rover as he cycled along the Great North Road between Potters Bar and Barnet in November 2009.

He suffered a serious brain injury, was in a coma for three weeks and spent six months in hospital before being moved to two specialist rehabilitation units. He was eventually discharged 21 months after the accident.

Mr Elliott, who fled from the scene of the accident, was sentenced to eight months in prison in October 2010 after admitting dangerous driving.

Mr Gougam, who was a coach at the club in Mortimer Drive, was left tetraplegic and in a wheelchair and now requires round-the-clock care and must be fed through a tube.

In his judgment, Mr Justice Haddon-Cave praised Mr Gougam's wife, Virginia, for her "extraordinary care, love and support for her husband and her determination to do everything she could for his care and rehabilitation".

Mrs Gougam said that the money would ensure her husband received the best quality of care at their specially adapted home in High Barnet.

Speaking on behalf of the family after the hearing, Stephanie Clarke, of lawyers Irwin Mitchell, said: "More than two years since the near-fatal accident Mrs Gougam struggles to face each day and the many challenges of caring for her husband and planning for his future."

Driver killed after smashing into van

By Ruth McKee

A DRIVER who died after losing control of his BMW had alcohol and drugs in his system, a coroner's court heard last week.

Gary Simmons, 40, of Bullsmoor Way, Waltham Cross, was killed on July 5 last year after losing control of his car as he left a roundabout in Mollison Avenue and smashed into an oncoming Mercedes van.

An inquest on Friday heard that Mr Simmons was speeding on bald tyres in slippery and wet conditions. PC Paul Summerton told Barnet Coroner's Court, in Wood Street, Barnet, that the reduced tyre tread combined with wet conditions would have meant Mr Simmons was driving with "racing slick tyres".

When asked if speed had been a major factor in causing the crash, PC Summerton replied that a "combination of factors", including road conditions, bald tyres and "input from the driver", all played a role in the events that led to the delivery driver's death.

The coroner, Andrew Walker, revealed that a toxicology report showed alcohol and cannabis in Mr Simmons' bloodstream but put it to the police officer that there was no evidence to say these had substances had directly caused the crash.

PC Summerton replied: "It could have been a combination of speed and other factors." He added that anything that impairs judgment makes a loss of control "more likely to happen".

The coroner recorded a verdict of "accidental death".

Speaking after the inquest, PC Summerton told the Advertiser: "It was a very serious crash but it could have been even worse. The BMW was coming off a roundabout and he lost control and spun straight into oncoming traffic."

"It was just so lucky there wasn't a motorbike or something travelling in the other direction," he added.

Teenager jailed after rape of woman at knifepoint

By Mary McConnell

A CYPRIOT teenager who raped a woman at knifepoint has been jailed for a minimum of six years.

Aliriza Cezmi, 19, dragged his terrified victim from an alleyway off Trammere Road, in Edmonton, as she walked home, pulling out a knife and threatening to stab her if she tried to get away.

After being hauled to a garage next to Cezmi's home in Trammere Road, the 31-year-old victim was raped at knifepoint before being turfed back out into the alleyway.

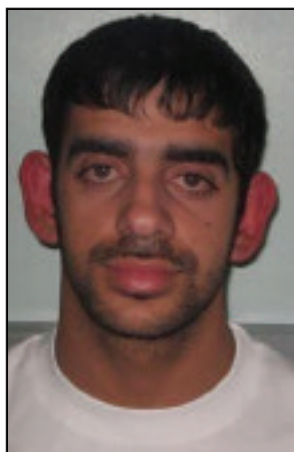

Following the attack, which took place on November 10, the victim rushed to a friend's house and called the police. Cezmi had been wearing a bandana to cover his face during the attack but members of the public were still able to help the police identify him and he was arrested on the same day as the attack.

He pleaded guilty to rape and possession of an offensive weapon at Wood Green Crown Court in December. During a hearing on Monday, Cezmi was given an indeterminate sentence and will serve a minimum of six years before being considered for parole.

Detective Constable Simon Chapman, of the Saphire Command, said: "This was a most callous and violent attack on a vulnerable female.

"I hope knowing that her attacker is now behind bars will go some way towards allowing the victim to come to terms with what has happened to her and allow her to go on to have a fulfilling future.

"We encourage victims of sexual assault to have the confidence to come forward to police as soon as possible. If there are further victims of Cezmi out there we would encourage them to come forward and speak with us, or attend a Haven sexual assault centre."

Jailed for six years: Cezmi

Woman's suicide after loss of job following riots

A WOMAN committed suicide after losing her job as a packer at the Sony warehouse, which was burned down during the Enfield summer riots.

At an inquest at Poplar Coroner's Court last week, it was revealed that Rita Baronoene, 43, of Halidon Close, Homerton, hanged herself in October after becoming depressed.

Ms Baronoene was a temporary member of staff at the distribution centre, in Solar Way, Enfield Lock, which was set ablaze by rioters on August 8.

The court heard that after losing her job at the warehouse she became depressed but did not seek medical treatment. She initially tried to commit suicide by drowning herself at Brighton beach in early October. She was discovered hanging in her flat by her partner on October 17.

Coroner Gill Elliman, who recorded a verdict of suicide last Tuesday, said: "Mrs Baronoene was suffering from depression and emotional problems but she was reluctant to seek treatment. She went to Brighton where she tried to drown herself at some point in October.

"On October 17 she was found after hanging herself in her flat."

A spokeswoman from Sony said: "We extend our sympathy to the family and friends of Ms Baronoene.

"Ms Baronoene was employed by a temporary staff agency who we utilise to fulfil varying staffing requirements.

"All permanent staff employed at Enfield remained within the company following the fire, continuing to work at our temporary sites."

Last summer hundreds of rioters rampaged around Enfield, targeting Church Street and the surrounding area on Sunday August 7 and then hitting the Sony warehouse the following evening.

No one has been charged in connection with the warehouse fire.

New school planned for all age groups as academy moves out

By Mary McConnell

A NEW school for both primary and secondary-aged students is being proposed in a bid to tackle the shortage of places in the borough.

It will be the second "all-through" school in Enfield, after Oasis Academy Hadley began taking children into new nursery and reception classes last September.

Oasis Academy Hadley, currently situated in Bell Lane, Enfield, is set to move to a new site in South Street, Ponders End, at the end of the year.

According to an Enfield Council spokeswoman, the Bell Lane buildings are likely to be retained for use as the all-through school so the borough continues to provide enough school places for children in the light of a rising population.

Under government regulations, all new schools are to be free schools – outside the control of the local authority and getting their funding straight from Whitehall. Councillors are looking for an organisation to come forward and bid to run the new school.

Ayfer Orhan, the council's cabinet member for schools and children's services, said: "Although academies operate outside the council's control, we recognise the importance of working with academy sponsors in order to secure government funding for more school places.

"We need to prepare for more school places and want to work with a sponsor that recognises this local need.

"We will want a sponsor that is sympathetic to the need to employ local people as the site and building is redeveloped and we hope that the new school sponsors will purchase the council's expert school services."

Playground gets bigger and better

By Sophie Barnes

YOUNGSTERS at Bowes school now have plenty of room to jump for joy following the expansion of their playground.

After Stanley Road, where the school is situated, was closed off to stop cars from using it as a rat run on to the A406, Enfield Council negotiated with Transport For London to set aside 200 square metres for the playground. TfL also agreed to provide funding for new play equipment.

Headteacher Sarah Turner said: "We now have about a third more play space providing a dedicated area for our reception classes."

The move is part of a traffic safety scheme which includes a new cycle lane running alongside the dual carriageway North Circular Road. Work should be completed in the spring. A lay-by has also been installed outside the school so that coaches are not forced to park in residential roads nearby.

Ayfer Orhan, Enfield Council's cabinet member for schools and children's services, said: "This project is a splendid example of TfL, the council and the school working together to produce an excellent outcome for the children and a better environment for the local community."

Top marks for lessons in ICT

By Ruth McKee

A PRIMARY school is at the cutting edge of IT learning in the country with children as happy with iPads as their parents were with blackboards.

The children at Bowes Primary School, off Stanley Road, New Southgate, led by executive headteacher Sarah Turner, are at the forefront of advanced ICT learning in schools.

After making the decision in 1999 to use Apple Macs for the school's main computer system, Ms Turner forged ahead with her vision of making the children as computer literate as possible.

"Many of them are using smart phones at home," Ms Turner told the Advertiser. "In many schools their experience of computers and ICT is not as good as it is within their own personal computer experience."

"Year 6 pupils use iPads in their guided reading - and we have a creative curriculum which gives us some freedom to fully integrate IT skills into everyday learning," she added.

The school's approach has been so successful that teachers from across the country visit to see how they can introduce similar schemes.

Pupils use iPod Touches in lessons and Ms Turner is also passionate that they need to learn from an early age about how to stay safe online.

She said: "It is not about putting blocks on what they can access. It is the same approach as teaching children about stranger danger."

Ms Turner added that the school could be the new face of ICT classes after Education Secretary Michael Gove's controversial decision to axe conventional information technology lessons.

Ms Turner cautiously agreed with last week's announcement. "In the future our children will be doing jobs that don't even exist now and it is difficult to make a long-term strategy for ICT because it changes so rapidly, but we need to make sure we train our pupils for the real world they are going into," she said.

The ENFIELD ADVERTISER COMMENT

Sunday parking charge is wrong

PROPOSALS to introduce Sunday parking charges have, rightfully, incensed residents.

The plans which will introduce parking wardens on Sundays can only be the beginning of the end of free parking in Enfield.

Although the enforcement has only been introduced in the shopping heart of the borough, Enfield Town, it sets a precedent for the tariffs to be introduced seven days a week in other retail areas including Edmonton, Palmers Green and Southgate. And after that it would be only too easy to keep wardens pounding the pavements on every road with parking bays every day.

Although the move is likely to assist Enfield Council's coffers, it will do little for the businesses in the area who have been fighting to keep going despite the recession and riots. What do they want more, pennies from parking or a boost from business rates?

Having a real say

RESIDENTS are being granted the chance to have a say on what happens in their own street – a small victory for the every day folk whose voices are often neglected.

With Enfield being one of the first areas in the country to trial the government's Neighbourhood Development Plan scheme it is an opportunity for the borough to blaze a trail and ensure that it isn't just big businesses that have a say on what does and doesn't spring up on our troubled high streets. And why shouldn't residents from Chase Side decide for themselves whether they would like to see another supermarket on their doorstep?

Now we just need to ensure that the people who don't form committees and create petitions, the ones without the means with which to campaign or canvass over changes to their areas are not forgotten.

Let's make sure that it is not just the people in the west of the borough who are having things their way.

Getting to hospital is a major concern

AT the moment, my husband has to go to Chase Farm Hospital every week. It's a W8 bus ride and we allow half an hour for the journey time.

To go to Barnet Hospital, it's two buses (W8 or 329, then 307) and we would have to allow two hours' journey time to make sure we weren't late for the appointment.

There is insufficient parking space at Barnet Hospital, so if we took the car, it would be a ten-minute walk back to the hospital from where we could find a space on the streets. The traffic wardens are red-hot and very vigilant.

The NHS staff at Chase Farm Hospital have been brilliant. They are unfailingly polite, helpful, supportive, informative and dedicated. Nothing is too much trouble. I award them my "unofficial" gold star for exemplary services to the community.

If Chase Farm Hospital closes, it's a 40-minute drive to Barnet and probably 20/30 in an ambulance. If you have had a stroke, you could be so seriously brain damaged by the time you arrive, you might never fully recover.

Also, in all hospitals, priority is given to road traffic accidents and children. North Middlesex University Hospital is nearer, but would it be able to cope with the huge influx of extra casualties?

The government wants to dismantle the National Health Service and privatise every medical service in the UK. We have paid our National Insurance contributions.

If people are rich enough to pay to go private, then that is their choice. We will end up being like America with a two-tier system – one for the rich and a standard, underfunded and ineffectual one for the poor and working classes.

Visualise a scenario where you have been run over and are lying injured in the road. The ambulance arrives and the first task is to check whether you have private medical insurance (no insurance, no deal!).

You would be left in the road. You might be moved on to the pavement so that you don't obstruct the traffic – "we're moving you on to the pavement, you working-class oik, as the Queen and the Prime Minister will be passing by here soon and we don't want you in the way!"

As you lay slowly bleeding to death and your life is flashing before you, your last thought might be: "I wish I'd joined the picket lines to stop Chase Farm Hospital from closing".

Parking charges have driven us away from Sunday shopping in town centre

RUTH McKEE'S article in the Advertiser (January 11) about retail closures in Enfield Town made interesting reading, especially when taken in conjunction with Steve Morpurgo's letter about the new Sunday parking charges (on the Opinion Extra page).

For many years we have come into Enfield Town every Sunday to do our shopping. Afterwards, we always like to relax with a coffee before driving home.

Using the car park at the shopping centre was always free on Sundays until last weekend.

We drove into the car park as usual and quickly found the reason why there seemed to be more spaces than we normally find – the new Sunday parking fees, of course.

Our usual stay is more than two hours but fewer than four. This means we would have to pay £3.80 each Sunday for "up to four hours".

Very craftily, the fee jumps from "up to two hours" to "up to four hours", so two hours and ten minutes would still cost £3.80. This equates to almost £200 extra a year before we start shopping.

We jumped back in the car and left. We won't be paying an additional £200 "tax" to shop. We'll go elsewhere.

As Steve Morpurgo said: "We the voters have to say no, we will not put up with it". I agree and will not be back while there are car parking charges on Sundays.

As Lord Alan Sugar might say: "With regret, Enfield Town, you're fired".

You report that high street retailers are closing but town centre manager Mark Rudling is confident that Enfield can withstand the closures. I don't share his optimism. The powers that be are driving us away.

Rather than making things even more difficult for retailers, they should be helping them to survive in these financially tough times.

Speed limits to protect walkers

RON PHIPPIN who dislikes "...wretched road humps" (Advertiser letters, January 11), probably slips on his car when he goes out as naturally as I slip on my shoes but he should remember that streets are also populated by an alien user group – pedestrians.

They don't have a ton or two of metal wrapped around them for protection and rely on traffic-calming measures to protect them from excess speed.

Mr Phippin should try joining them to get a feel of what 30mph (or 30mph-plus) feels like to walkers. Better still, if he has children, he should contemplate whether he would like to let a ten-year-old walk or cycle to school unaccompanied.

On one thing we can agree – humps are not the best of traffic-calming measures. On the other hand, I doubt he'll like my preferred option – 20mph limits on roads with rules that give pedestrians the right to cross the road where they prefer rather than make a detour to a pedestrian crossing.

Walkers have as much right as drivers to reach their destination directly, conveniently, safely and on time.

David Hughes
Conway Road, Southgate

Making sense of 20mph zones

I HAVE no doubt Chris Bond is a thoroughly decent man and we could sit down in any one of Winchmore Hill's most welcoming public houses and have a friendly chat about challenging issues facing the borough.

But I would hope that during the course of these discussions he would apply a sense of the sensible, if you like, not only in restricting the impact of 20mph zones, but also in the way they are implemented.

Would we need them outside St Paul's Primary School in Winchmore Hill, for instance? Hopefully not, especially when the school is centred around a double chicane but you never know – and this is my general point about councils, not just Enfield.

Whatever the decision, in many cases, it is blanket driven. I tend to roll my eyes and think: "Why have you done this?" in whichever borough I have resided in.

Economics sometimes never appears to be a consideration (except when April appears on the horizon). Hoping this isn't the case throughout the borough.

New law could help out supermarket opponents

By Mary McConnell

OPponents of a supermarket application want to become the first in the country to be granted a bigger influence on local planning decisions under new laws granted by the government.

The campaigners, who all live near Chase Side, want to form a Neighbourhood Development Plan, one of the planning reforms being brought in under the Localism Bill, and are looking for 600 more signatures for their petition to the council.

The idea to form the plan came after the group set about opposing a planning application for a new supermarket along Chase Side. Although the planning application, submitted by a developer, is yet to have one of the supermarket giants attached, if the permission is granted by the council that could change. Councillors are to decide the fate of the plot, at 105 and 107 Chase Side, at a planning meeting to be held in next month.

Residents fear a new supermarket will put local independent retailers out of business and add traffic problems to the area – which already has a glut of supermarkets competing for business.

Chase Side resident Helen Bush says the Neighbourhood Development Plan will give residents a say on planning applications in the area, including the proposed supermarket.

“This would be a landmark, if we can

Forming a plan: Residents around Chase Side are harnessing new laws get it into place,” she said. “It would enable us to get people interested in how local planning is used. We can form a committee and put views across to the council.

“It gives residents a voice and that voice has to be listened to. We could have done a petition about the supermarket itself but I don’t think it would be as effective – it hasn’t worked in the past.”

So far between 650 and 700 people have signed the petition, but they need one per cent of the borough’s population to be on board before forming a Neighbourhood Development Plan for Chase Side – which means just under 1,300 signatures.

A spokesman from Enfield Council said the borough was one of the areas where the new scheme is being trialled but the new plans were still at the early stage of development.

Go to www.change.org/petitions and search for Chase Side to sign the petition.

Misconduct hearing of nurse accused of sex offences is adjourned

By Mary McConnell

THE misconduct hearing of a nurse accused of sexually molesting four psychiatric patients was adjourned after members of the panel failed to decide on the verdict within the allotted time.

Ramkaranall Bhatoolall, who was a nurse on Dorset Ward, run by the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental Health Trust, faces seven misconduct charges including touching one patient's breast and another patient's leg.

He is also alleged to have told a patient he was aroused and asked her: "Do you want to touch it?"

The Mauritian-born nurse, who used to be a police officer, faces being struck off the nursing register if he is found guilty of the offences.

Due to ill health, Mr Bhatoolall did not attend the hearing, which was carried out by the Nursing and Midwifery Council at The Grange Hotel in Holborn. It was scheduled for one week, starting last Monday, but the panel, which is made up of one trained nurse and two lay members, had not decided on all seven charges by the end of Friday and so the case is expected to continue in April.

The incidents are alleged to have taken place at Chase Farm Hospital, The Ridgeway, Enfield, between April and June 2008. Mr Bhatoolall denies acting inappropriately.

Last week a transcript of an internal investigation meeting held between Mr Bhatoolall and Rosalind Glancy, the lead nurse at the ward in 2008, was read out at the hearing. The panel heard that during the meeting Mr Bhatoolall claimed the patients had made the allegations up because they did not like him.

According to the transcript, he said: "They don't like me because I don't talk about my private life. I am firm with them, I don't allow them to eat food or drink tea in their rooms and visitors are not allowed in to see them beyond visiting hours."

The panel also heard that Mr Bhatoolall told a student nurse not to tell senior staff about a meeting he had with a relative of one of the patients who had accused him of acting inappropriately. He is alleged to have threatened not to sign the student's assessment form if she did.

A police investigation into the allegations was dropped due to the failing health of one of the patients.

Shop raids search for illegal imports

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

By Mary McConnell

ALMOST 10,000 cigarettes and more than 50 bottles of alcohol were seized during a swoop on shops in Hertford Road last Wednesday.

All the items are suspected of being either fake, or the proper import duty had not been paid. They could be destroyed and shop owners face prosecution and having their premises licence reviewed, and potentially revoked.

Revenue and customs officers and the trading standards team from Enfield Council raided 16 premises – some following tip-offs and checking on retailers who had flouted the law previously.

Customs officers Jon Read and Kelvin Gould seized 7,000 Polish cigarettes at Paradise Food & Wine. Some were stashed behind the counter and some were stored at the back of the shop.

Also confiscated were ten 70cl bottles of vodka. Two of the bottles, which had Glen's Vodka labels on them, were taken for testing.

Sheila Lahey, from the council's trading standards department, explained: "We have some intelligence that there are some fake bottles of Glen's Vodka being sold in shops in the area, so this would be a health and safety issue."

According to the team there are a number of telltale signs. "I look out for the spelling and the way the labels are fixed on," added Sheila. "The fake labels will not be on securely and they may be spelt incorrectly. To absolutely verify whether it is a fake it has to be tested."

Jon said that the price of the alcohol is a strong indicator of whether it had been imported legitimately. "The duty on a 70cl bottle of vodka is about £6.50 so if it is only on sale for about £8

then it is likely to have been imported illegally," he said "They just couldn't make any money out of it otherwise."

Kelvin uses an ultraviolet light to shine on the stamp on the back of the bottle. It glows a slightly yellow colour when the bottle is genuine.

Following his interview with Jon and Kelvin, Erdal Targay, the owner, claimed to have been in charge of the shop for only two months and all the suspect stock remained from the previous management.

Jon and Kelvin gave him a warning, along with information about what can legally be sold in his shop. They also warned him to keep invoices so that inspectors can check the source of the Italian wine on sale at two for £5.

"We tell them we will be back to check on them again and we have the option of suspending their trading licence," added Jon.

Leftside

Ability to spot weakness in opposition was key to success of Thatcher era

SOONER or later, they were bound to make a big-budget biopic about Margaret Thatcher. It's no surprise, either, to see an American actress, rather than one of our own theatrical dames, in the title role: Mrs Thatcher is seen by many in the US as a feminist icon.

It was the left, not the right, that originally built Mrs Thatcher up as a superhuman, mythic figure. But behind all this "Iron Lady" stuff lies a simple truth.

Mrs Thatcher was successful because she, or her backroom advisers, correctly gauged the weakness of their opposition. They knew that the Labour party (even when they were Old, not New Labour) were sham socialists. They knew, too, that the trade union leaders, for all their bluster, would run away from a real fight with the bosses.

As a good lefty I of course opposed most of Mrs Thatcher's policies. I protested against the Falklands War. I collected money for the striking miners. However, there was one policy – the most disastrous part of the Thatcherite legacy – which I enthusiastically supported.

I bought a flat. I took out a mortgage. I signed up for Mrs Thatcher's "property owning democracy". Millions of us did so. That is what caused the present housing crisis. That is how Britain came to be dominated by the banks.

When you compare Mrs Thatcher's Tories with the present lot you can see what Karl Marx meant when he wrote: "History repeats itself, the first time as tragedy, the second time as farce."

‘ It was the left, not the right, that originally built Mrs Thatcher up as a superhuman, mythic figure. ’

Thatcher and co had the fire in their bellies. They were spoiling for a fight with the unions and the left. But Cameron and Clegg are quite relaxed about it all. They assume that any opposition can be effortlessly brushed aside.

Doug Taylor

Leader of Enfield Council

ENFIELD is experiencing large increases in the number of pupils attending our schools and this is putting increasing pressure on primary schools, but will also affect secondary schools as the extra pupils work their way through the education system.

In order to deal with increasing pupil numbers, we will need to build new schools and, if no funding from the government is made available, Enfield Council will be forced to borrow substantial amounts of money to do so – placing the burden of interest payments on council taxpayers.

The Mayor Of London Boris Johnson is increasing the cost of concessionary travel by increasing fares. This year alone that will cost people in Enfield an extra £700,000 a year.

These are just two extra financial pressures on the council. We are approaching the time when we must set the final budget, and once again we face difficult choices.

The council has already saved £34.5million in 2011/12 and has identified further proposals totalling £14m for 2012/13.

We will still need to save a further £26m over the next two years as well. So we still face major challenges in order to protect frontline services and limit council tax increases.

This year – after the government cuts – we were assessed by the coalition as needing £145m of central funding to meet our needs. Because of a phenomenon called damping, the government immediately reduced this figure by £15m and gave it to councils in "greater need".

Breakneck speed of the cuts makes for difficult times ahead

In 2012/13, we will lose another £8m and, worse still, government proposes to continue to deny us of this money indefinitely. Of all London councils, Enfield is the biggest loser.

Few London councils lost money – and we lost the most.

We will balance the budget this year but I have to warn of hard times ahead. It gets increasingly difficult to find savings and limit the impact on frontline services.

Government shows little interest in the impact cuts will have – and this is particularly galling because of this £8m extra taken from us.

No one in the council wants to see services suffer, charges increase or facilities close. We have avoided most of that to date but if the government continues its headlong rush to slash, difficult decisions will have to be made.

Calling out to all Community Groups, voluntary organisations and businesses

Sisters' tales of love in the 19th century

THE Chapterhouse Theatre Company will be bringing a bit of Regency class to Potters Bar at the end of January with their stage production of Sense And Sensibility.

More used to touring open-air theatres in the grounds of country houses and heritage sites including Knebworth House, the theatre company has come indoors for their spring theatre tour with a revival of the summer sell-out production of Jane Austen's much-loved tale.

The opening night of the Sense And Sensibility tour takes place at the Wylllyotts Theatre, in Darkes Lane, Potters Bar, on January 28, and on February 28 it will be at the Radlett Centre, in Radlett, Hertfordshire.

The play tells the story of sisters Elinor and Marianne Dashwood as they fall in and out of love and navigate their way through early 19th-century society.

This classic story has been adapted for the theatre by Laura Turner, who has written a range of 19th-century works for the stage, including Elizabeth Gaskell's Cranford and Austen's other classic Pride And Prejudice.

She is currently adapting another of the writer's novels, Emma, for the stage.

But Turner's talent also lends itself to contemporary work. After completing a BBC New Talent training programme, she was one of just 15 new writers chosen to write the third series of the East-Enders spin-off, E20.

Adults £14/concessions £13. Wylllyotts Theatre, Potters Bar. January 28, 7.30pm. Box office: 01707 645005, or go to www.wylllyotts-theatre.co.uk to book.

Regency-class tale: Sense And Sensibility comes to the Wylllyotts Theatre

The Westender

MADCAP duo The Pajama Men have returned to London with their brand new show In The Middle Of No One which debuted at the Charing Cross Theatre last week.

Dressed, of course, only in their PJs, The Pajama Men pranced, danced and skipped across the stage impersonating a range of surreal characters as we followed the warped adventures of time traveller Ross Sparks.

Americans Mark Chavez and Shenoah Allen jump from character to character in the blink of an eye so it is impossible to give a mention to all their wonderful creations but a few highlights include a parrot with an unconventional squawk, a brilliantly embarrassed healthcare worker and Chavez's inspired turn as a baby.

And by the end of the 60-minute show the exhausted pair's sketches, which initially seemed randomly lumped together, were all neatly tied up in one surreal knot. Get down to see the show while you can.

Charing Cross Theatre, The Arches, Villiers Street, WC2N 6NL. Box office: 020 7907 7075. Until March 3.

Could you adopt for Enfield?

You could make a difference to a child...

Every year, there are thousands of children throughout the UK needing a new permanent family. In Enfield we have children from many different backgrounds, cultures and religions and we need new families to reflect this. Children may be placed for adoption as single children or they may need to be placed with their brothers or sisters.

Enfield Adoption Service will ensure families get all the information and support they need both before and after adoption. Adopting is about making a real difference to a child's life.

We understand it's a complex subject and that the decision to adopt is a huge one that can't be taken lightly.

So at all times we aim to be honest, balanced and provide you with a clear picture of what to expect.

Fresh flavours abound in delightful Punjabi cuisine

Shimla

WALKING into this new restaurant midweek, these curious gannets found an empty establishment, but after getting our beaks into this spicy grub, complemented with extra touches, we reckon the midweek rush will soon come knocking.

The family-run business stands head and shoulders above many other curry houses.

The two-tiered setting is decorated in opposing styles, the glamorous wallpaper downstairs sets the mood for a celebration, while the paint and photograph-strewn walls upstairs with exposed beams create a home dining-room environment.

Starting off our meal this pair of work-weary grouchy gannets opted to treat themselves with the Shimla Signature Platter (£14.95). The food, which arrives on a dumb waiter from unseen or smelt kitchen upstairs, is sizzling moist and appears freshly prepared.

Moving on to the main event, Gluttonous Gannet opted for what turned out to be a back-to-basics Lamb Biryani (£10.95). It is served in a clay-style individual pot, sealed with dough, making the rice light and non-starchy, and the spices combine together fully.

Mr Glut added the unsweetened Saag Gosht (£10.95) to his plate, which was far from the commonly experienced watery let down and again appeared to be cooked from scratch. Grumpy Gannet received her Murgh Nihari (£8.95) and naan (£2.25) with another twist, additional chopped green chillis, coriander and onions were provided in a separate plate to be added to suit your taste. With the additional ingredients the comfortable side of spicy, the lightly crispy, without being greasy, naan helped to mop up the well-infused meat and sauce.

Although on the pricey side, the freshly prepared food was well worth

Family business: Shimla serves up a range of high-quality spicy food the cost if you appreciate the effort put into preparing the food.

Despite there being benefits of a quiet night, having a chance to chat with the owner about future developments, for our tastebuds' sake we hope the quiet nights are few and far between for this delightful restaurant.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Hospice marks 20th year in sky-high celebration stunt

By Sophie Barnes

THE North London Hospice is seeking daredevil volunteers to take part in a sponsored skydive to mark its 20th anniversary of providing healthcare in the community.

On March 24, 20 volunteers will take to the skies to raise money for the hospice, which is opening a new hospice in Winchmore Hill later this year and relies on community funding to deliver its services for patients with terminal illnesses.

The hospice requires £6million a year to run specialist care services including outpatient clinics, complementary therapies, physiotherapy and art therapy.

Annette Foxlow was a patient at the hospice during the last few weeks of her life. Her husband, Karl Foxlow, praised the quality of care his wife received, including arranging the couple's wedding in November.

He told the Advertiser: "Annette spent her last few weeks in the hospice and they were the most comfortable she had been for years. She told me a number of times she felt safe there. She loved hugging people and the fact that the staff would take the time to hug and chat and hold Annette's hand meant so very much to her."

He added: "The team is very special there and I will always be grateful to them for looking after my darling wife with such love and care."

The money raised will also help towards the construction of a new hospice in Barrowell Green, Winchmore Hill, and will provide care closer to home for those patients who currently travel to the hospice's base in Woodside Avenue, North Finchley.

"This is a fantastic opportunity for anyone who ever wanted to do a skydive – they can help their local hospice by raising some sponsorship and enjoy an amazing experience," said Natalie Gordon, a member of the hospice fundraising team.

If you would like to join the sponsored skydive to raise money for the North London Hospice contact Natalie Gordon on 020 8446 2288 or email ngordon@northlondonhospice.co.uk

Many property deals fall through because of problems that arise after an offer has been accepted on a property. The long and convoluted legal process of preparing contracts has not really changed in decades and it often creates delays and problems that mean a sale falls through or takes months. Many agree that the process is deeply flawed and needs to change, but nobody has been able to do so, until now...

We are the 1st estate agent in the UK to offer a new way of doing things. It is very simple in practice, but has required a multi-million pound investment to set up. It can speed up the sale of a property by 10 - 13 weeks, yet the only additional cost to the entire process of moving is just £3.60! If you like the idea of saving time and money when moving, then we can provide you with a free market appraisal and valuation of your property to see if it's eligible for our 1st class service.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
3. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'IT' etc. in the advertisement.
4. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified headline and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

- (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been provided will be reclaimed.

PARKER: WE CAN STILL WIN TITLE

By Dominique Stafford

SCOTT PARKER insists that Tottenham Hotspur still have a genuine chance of being crowned Premier League champions this season as they prepare for Sunday's pivotal showdown at table-topping Manchester City.

A disappointing 1-1 draw at home to struggling Wolverhampton Wanderers has left Spurs five points adrift of the leaders – and with a vastly inferior goal difference – ahead of their trip to the Etihad Stadium, where City still have a 100 per cent record in the league.

But midfielder Parker, who made his return from injury against Wolves, is remaining upbeat and believes that confidence is still high at White Hart Lane.

"I think we can still win the title definitely," he said. "We need to believe that we can win every game and then see where that puts us."

"We have to enjoy this moment and obviously be happy where we are, keep enjoying it and get the best results."

"We will quickly dust ourselves down from this game, and we will go to Man City looking forward to it and hopefully get the three points. It's a big game, and I am sure we will come out on the front foot looking to win."

Saturday's match saw Tottenham fall behind in slightly unfortunate fashion as Steven Fletcher scored from a corner which should not have been given, but they hit back to level the scores through Luka Modric early in the second half.

Despite putting their visitors under considerable pressure, Spurs were unable to get the winner – with Emmanuel Adebayor harshly having a goal ruled out for offside – as they dropped points at home for the third time this season.

"It was a shame we didn't win," Modric said. "It was a hard game, especially when Wolves scored first."

"It is always harder for us when the opposition claim the first goal at White Hart Lane, they can

Issuing a rallying call: Scott Parker believes that Tottenham can get a positive result at Manchester City then sit back and it's tough to break them down.

"In the second half we managed to score a goal and for 15 or 20 minutes after that we were all over them. We created chances but couldn't score."

"In the end it's a draw. It's nothing to worry about. We need to do what we were doing before this game and start winning again."

Modric added: "No-one expected a draw, but that is why this league is so interesting. There are no easy opponents and every game is hard."

"We need to pick ourselves up. We have a big game on Sunday, and we have to be positive."

Borough boosted by Benjamin's brace

CHRISTOPHER BENJAMIN scored twice in quick succession on Saturday to help Haringey Borough record a 2-0 win at Hertford Town in the Spartan Premier Division.

Although Borough failed to match the excellence of the performance they produced in their 6-1 rout of Biggleswade United in the fourth round of the Challenge Trophy four days earlier – when Dean Fenton scored a remarkable five times and Richard Worrell was also on target – they were still utterly dominant in the first half as they created a succession of chances.

The opening goal finally arrived on 31 minutes as Benjamin bundled the ball in from close range following a scramble, and the same player struck again three minutes later – racing clear before scoring with a clinical low finish.

But the second half was a different story as Hertford put their visitors under considerable pressure for long spells.

The hosts missed two good chances in the opening ten minutes of the half and then saw a free-kick come back off the post before Borough keeper Ryohei Tamai made a superb save from a header at point-blank range.

Having ridden their luck, the introduction of Roland Namquita and Worrell gave Borough renewed impetus in attack, and only a goalline clearance prevented Namquita from adding a late third.

Haringey Borough entertain Colney Heath on Saturday (3pm).

Honours even in Skolars' first friendly

THE LONDON Skolars began their build-up for the new rugby league season by playing out a thrilling 42-42 draw at home to London Broncos' under-20 side in their opening pre-season friendly on Sunday.

The match was divided into three periods, and the Skolars trailed 18-14 at the end of the first third before enjoying total domination in a second period which saw them score 20 unanswered points.

However, the youngsters from the Super League outfit showed great spirit in the final third as they fought back to claim a share of the spoils.

Skolars coach Joe Mbu also used the game to give opportunities to several youngsters, and Jack Clover certainly made the most of his chance to shine as he intercepted a pass and raced 40 yards to score a try in his first game out of the Skolars' under-18 side.

John Paxton (two) Smokie Junor (two), Yann Rousseau, Lameck Juma, Will Colleran and Olly Purslow also scored tries for the Skolars, but a disappointing display of goalkicking meant that only three of the nine tries were converted – with Neil Thorman, Rousseau and Martyn Smith all adding one goal.

In stark contrast, Oscar Thomas converted all seven of the Broncos' tries, two of which he scored himself. Miles McCloud, Rob Thomas, Jack Molloy, Sam Bolger and Mick Bishay also crossed the line for the visitors.

The Skolars face another pre-season clash at Colchester Army Garrison on Sunday.
